

Postgraduate Study in Emergency Nursing

Excellent care for emergency patients

About the Course

If you have a passion for emergency nursing, this is the course for you! You should first apply for a place in the course with Bendigo Health (BH) and if successful enroll in the Master of Advanced Clinical Nursing (Emergency) with Monash University. You will:

- Complete study at a graduate certificate level over 12 months with the option to exit or to continue studying to complete a master of nursing.
- Be employed 0.7EFT in the Emergency Department (ED) at BH for the 12 months duration of the course.
- Develop the knowledge and patient care skills required to provide safe and effective nursing care for emergency patients across the lifespan.
- Complete rotations to the Intensive Care Unit, Cardiac Catheter Laboratory and Anaesthesia.
- Participate in a program of tutorials and BH study days to support the university academic requirements and to facilitate knowledge translation, continuing development and enhanced quality patient care.
- Be supported with study leave, scholarship opportunities and clinical educators.

Our Department

Our ED is a modern, well equipped department with almost 60,000 presentations each year. These include emergency trauma, coronary care, paediatrics, obstetrics, mental health, resuscitation patients and many others. Course participants will provide care in a variety of emergency settings including resuscitation, triage and ambulatory care and will develop sound assessment and management skills. The ED has an experienced team of clinicians who are committed to supporting your learning.

Course Application

Apply via the Bendigo Health e-recruit portal by

Sunday 18th September

Bendigo Health - eRecruit by Equifax \(mercury.com.au\)

More information?

Contact Kim Fuzzard

KFuzzard@bendigohealth.org.au

or Michelle Hogan

MHogan@bendigohealth.org.au

or Kylie Maddern

KMaddern@bendigohealth.org.au